Preface.

THE Parish of Haslemere is situate in the south-western corner of the county of Surrey, and, as its name implies, forms there the boundary between the counties of Surrey, Sussex, and Hampshire. It lies at the highest point of the valley, between the projecting ridges of Hindhead in Surrey and Blackdown in Sussex, each 800 to 900 feet above sea-level.

The parish is of very irregular shape. It comprises an area of about 1856 acres, and in 1801 had a population of 642.* The radius of a mile and a half from the centre of the town includes not only the whole of the parish itself, but substantial portions of eight others, viz.: Frensham, Thursley, Witley, and Chiddingfold in Surrey, Lurgashall, Fernhurst, and Linchmere in Sussex, and the Tithing of North Ambersham, belonging to the parish of Steep (with Bramshot very close) in Hampshire.

The Parish Church of Frensham is eight miles distant, those of Thursley, Witley, Chiddingfold, and Lurgashall about five miles, Linchmere and Fernhurst about three miles, and Steep ten miles.

The approach to these villages, especially to those on the further side of Hindhead and Blackdown, can have been in former times little better than pack-horse roads, probably almost impassable in winter.

* The civil parish of Haslemere has recently been enlarged by the annexation of part of Thursley. The population is now nearly 3000, and additional churches have been erected in the adjacent parts of Frensham, Thursley, and Witley.

The inhabitants of the groups of houses collected around Haslemere belonging to outlying parishes had been accustomed from the earliest times to avail themselves of this Church for their Christenings, Marriages, and Burials. Consequently something like one-fourth of the following entries properly belong to other parishes, the registers of which to that extent will be incomplete, and missing links in family records must be looked for here.

Haslemere was originally included in the parish of Chiddingfold, and it is not quite clear at what date it was constituted as a separate parish with its own administrative parochial officers and its special allotment of tithe. In 1633 Edynton, Bishop of Winchester, issued a licence for the consecration of the Chapel of Haslemere ("ab antiquo constructam") and the burial-ground around the same. In 1393 a charter for a market and fairs was granted by Richard II. to John Waltham, Bishop of Salisbury, who was then Lord of the Manor of Godalming, within which Haslemere is situate. This charter was renewed in 1596 by Queen Elizabeth to the Bailiff and Burgesses of Haslemere; and from 1584 to the Reform Act of 1832 the Borough of Haslemere (including only the houses in the town) returned two members to Parliament.

In any case, during the whole of the period covered by the following Register, 1573—1812, the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury were Patrons of the livings of Chiddingfold cum Haslemere, which were always held together under one Rector, who resided at Chiddingfold, Haslemere being served by deputy or curates who lived there—some for many years, others only for a short time. Some kept the Registers themselves, others left that duty principally to the parish clerks.

All these circumstances probably account for the frequent and erratic breaks in the sequence of dates as well as for the variety of method and orthography in making the entries.

Among the most careful series is that of Thomas Burges, who commenced Book I., and who was Curate for about twenty-six years. He resided at Haslemere, married and brought up a family there. His Copy from the "Olde Book" (1573—1627) is probably verbatim. His last entry is in 1653, in August of which year an Ordinance of Parliament was issued removing the duty of Registration from the clergy and entrusting it to "an able and honest person" to be approved by a Justice of the Peace, and who was to be paid certain fees for keeping the Register.

therein entered from October 1653 to 1656 and a few for 1657-8. There are some entries of marriages before a Justice, no marriages being lawful unless the ceremony was so performed. The Ordinance of 1653 was confirmed in 1656 except that this proviso was omitted, practically leaving marriages to be celebrated in churches if the parties so desired. Entries follow of Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials, 1661—1676. Also duplicate entries of Burials, 1676—1696, omitted here as they appear in Book I. (see pp. 60, 86, 99). There is a note of Collections on Briefs, 1662—1669, a list of Churchwardens, 1662—1667, and some personal memoranda (as also others in Book I.) by Mr. Joynes the Curate 1684—1700. He seems to have used the Registers freely for this purpose, and he might possibly have been able to account for

The inhabitants of the groups of houses collected around Haslemere belonging to outlying parishes had been accustomed from the earliest times to avail themselves of this Church for their Christenings, Marriages, and Burials. Consequently something like one-fourth of the following entries properly belong to other parishes, the registers of which to that extent will be incomplete, and missing links in family records must be looked for here.

Haslemere was originally included in the parish of Chiddingfold, and it is not quite clear at what date it was constituted as a separate parish with its own officers and its special allotment. Bishop of Winchester, issued a charter of the Chapel of Haslemere ("about the burial-ground around the same market and fairs was granted by William, Bishop of Salisbury, who was of Godalming, within which Haslemere was renewed in 1596 by Queen Elizabeth I. Burgesses of Haslemere; and from 1584 to the Reform Act of 1832 the Borough of Haslemere (including only the houses in the town) returned two members to Parliament.

In any case, during the whole of the period covered by the following Register, 1573—1812, the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury were Patrons of the livings of Chiddingfold cum Haslemere, which were always held together under one Rector, who resided at Chiddingfold, Haslemere being served by deputy or curates who lived there—some for many years, others only for a short time. Some kept the Registers themselves, others left that duty principally to the parish clerks.

All these circumstances probably account for the frequent and erratic breaks in the sequence of dates as well as for the variety of method and orthography in making the entries.

Among the most careful series is that of Thomas Burges, who commenced Book I., and who was Curate for about twenty-six years. He resided at Haslemere, married and brought up a family there. His Copy from the "Olde Book" (1573—1627) is probably verbatim. His last entry is in 1653, in August of which year an Ordinance of Parliament was issued removing the duty of Registration from the clergy and entrusting it to "an able and honest person" to be approved by a Justice of the Peace, and who was to be paid certain fees for keeping the Register.

No entries seem to have been made in Book I. during the Interregnum, but after the Restoration its use was resumed and continued, with some omissions, up to 1700.

In 1694 an Act (6 and 7 Wm. and Mary, cap. 6) was passed imposing duties on births, marriages, and burials "for enabling his Majesty to carry on the war with France with vigour." This is noted in Book I., pp. 42, 46, 47, 48.

Book II. appears to be the "Parchment Book" directed to be provided under the Ordinance of 1653. Births are therein entered from October 1653 to 1656 and a few for 1657-8. There are some entries of marriages before a Justice, no marriages being lawful unless the ceremony was so performed. The Ordinance of 1653 was confirmed in 1656 except that this proviso was omitted, practically leaving marriages to be celebrated in churches if the parties so desired. Entries follow of Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials, 1661—1676. Also duplicate entries of Burials, 1676—1696, omitted here as they appear in Book I. (see pp. 60, 86, 99). There is a note of Collections on Briefs, 1662—1669, a list of Churchwardens, 1662—1667, and some personal memoranda (as also others in Book I.) by Mr. Joynes the Curate 1684—1700. He seems to have used the Registers freely for this purpose, and he might possibly have been able to account for some of the missing leaves, which however were most likely otherwise blank.

In 1666, by 18 Car. II., cap. 4, passed for the encouragement of woollen manufactures in England, it was enacted that "no person whatever should be buried in any material made up of any other than wool only" under a penalty of £5. This Act was repealed in 1678 by 30 Car. II., cap. 3, and the clauses as to burying in woollen re-enacted with the addition that the persons having charge of the funeral were to deliver an affidavit to the minister that woollen only had been used. The minister was to give notice to the churchwardens, who were to prosecute if no such affidavit had been received within eight days after the burial. This is referred to on pp. 112, 231. The Act was in force for more than 100 years, and was not repealed until 1814, but gradually fell into desuetude, the receipt of an affidavit on June 10th, 1783, being the last recorded in the register.

Book III. commences in 1678 with the burials in woollen and carries on to 1697, Burials for 1698—1700 being entered in Book I., pp. 48, 49. There are also some duplicate entries of Baptisms, but as they appear in their proper course elsewhere they are omitted in this transcript. At the end is an entry of Articles of Belief, written by one of the curates apparently about 1708.

Book IV. has been badly used and is much worn. It contains what seems to be a regular record of Baptisms and Burials from 1701 to 1786, and of Marriages 1701 to 1772, the Marriages after 1754, principally written by the Parish Clerk, being the same as those in the special Register Books VI. and VII.

By 9 Wm. III., cap. 32 (1697-8), ministers were required to set down the respective degrees, quality, and condition of everyone christened, married, or buried, with their residence and other particulars. This provision was complied with from the beginning of this book for Baptisms up to 1714, for Marriages up to about 1705, and for Burials to 1717. Also afterwards for Burials from 1723 to 1743 in most cases, and 1772 to 1786 partially. After 1772 the age is generally given in the Burials.

An Act of Parliament passed in 1750 directed that the 1st day of January after the 31st day of December 1751 was to be called the 1st day of January 1752. "The New Style," however, does not seem to have been adopted in the Haslemere Registers until the 1st of January 1753, all previous entries being made in accordance with the Ecclesiastical year which began on 25th March.

By 23 Geo. III., cap. 67, a duty of 3d. was imposed on every entry of a Birth, Marriage, or Burial after 1st October 1783. This is noted to begin in the Burials in November 1783 and in the Baptisms in September 1784. The Act was repealed in 1794.

Book V. is a continuation of Book IV., Baptisms and Burials, 1787—1812.

Book VI. commences the Register of Marriages in accordance with 26 Geo. II., cap. 33 (1753), "for the prevention of clandestine marriages," by which all Marriages and Banns were to be registered on special forms prescribed by the Act and signed by the parties, the minister, and the witnesses present. After 25th March 1754 any person making or publishing a false entry or forging or destroying a Register or any part thereof was to be deemed guilty of felony, and to suffer death as a felon without benefit of clergy.

Book VII. is a continuation of the Marriages, 1793—1812, the forms being slightly different, and the publication of Banns on a separate form.

Briefs.—In Books I. and III., pp. 64, 86, 101—103, will be found entries of collections made in response to the Briefs or Royal Letters Patent which were issued to all parishes for the relief of losses by fire and other accidents, for re-building and repairing churches, etc., in the years 1662—69 and 1695—99. In Book IV., pp. 201—212, are noted the collections on some 350 Briefs between the years 1701—1744, probably nearly all that were issued within that time. These Briefs were regulated by the Act 4 and 5 Anne, cap. 25 (1705), which was repealed by 9 Geo. IV., cap. 42 (1828). Queen's Letters were occasionally issued afterwards under the authority of the Incorporated Church Building Society, but have now for many years fallen into disuse.

Search has been made among the "Bishops' transcripts" in the custody of the Registrar of the Commissary Court of Surrey, which are kept in the Vestry of the Church of St. Saviour's, Southwark, but only one was found relating to Haslemere, that for the year 1718, signed by Meredith Jones. No check on the accuracy of the Registers has therefore been possible by comparison in that direction.

Any list of the Rectors of Chiddingfold-cum-Haslemere would be more appropriately attached to the Register of Chiddingfold, and is not attempted here.

The last Rector of the united parishes was the Rev. James Legrew Hesse, instituted 8 December 1838. He came to reside at Haslemere in 1848, and placed a curate at Chiddingfold. Previous to his death in September 1868 the patronage of the living had passed to the Bishop of Winchester, who, on the vacancy occurring, presented, as the first Rector of the separated parish of Haslemere, the Rev. Sanders Etheridge, M.A. The patronage afterwards became vested in the Bishop of Lichfield, and then in the Lord Chancellor, who, on the resignation of the Rev. S. Etheridge in 1897, presented the present Rector, the Rev. George Herbert Aitken, B.A., to the Benefice.

To both of these last-mentioned Rectors the writer has to express his grateful acknowledgement for facilities given in transcribing the Registers and for consent to print them.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

The transcript is "verbatim et literatim" of all the contents of the Registers, subject to contractions here noted or to observations in the text, and is printed throughout in this type.

The letters A, B, C, etc., mark a change in the handwriting of the original. The recurrence of the same letter in different places indicates the same handwriting. The mark  $\Delta$  signifies that the writing has not been identified with any other and is probably not by the regular Minister or Parish Clerk.

{ signifies that the missing entry has been torn off or worn out.

? before or following a word denotes doubtful name or spelling.

A blank space in the entries denotes a like blank in the original.

The abbreviation "dau." is used in this transcript where "daughter" is full in the original; other abbreviations or peculiarities in spelling the word are as in original.

Some other obvious contractions of names of persons and places are used towards the end.

⊕ Signifies that there is, or was, a memorial or tombstone in the church or churchyard; M. & B. with the mark signifies that the memorial does not now exist, but is referred to in Manning and Bray's "Surrey."

The "Index of Years" will give the pages on which the Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials respectively occur, and the years for which there appears to be no record.

The entries were commenced by Thomas Burges, Curate; those entries dated before 1627 have been copied by him from an "old booke," which was apparently kept in an irregular manner. Many years are omitted between the earliest in 1573 and 1627. Burges was Curate from 1627 to 1653, and the record between those dates seems to be perfect. After 1653 there is much irregularity until 1676, and then the Baptisms run on fairly regular until 1700, and the Burials until 1691.
